

If you have a problem, if no one else can help, and if you're famous and good looking enough to have his number, maybe you can hire...

CHASE PIERCE

SECRET HOLLYWOOD AGENT

Meet Chase Pierce, the hardest working agent in Hollywood. With a client roster comprised of some of the world's biggest actors, directors and pop stars, Chase is in high demand as the agent willing to do what other agents won't. Slimier than Ari Gold of Entourage, smarter than 30 Rock's Alec Baldwin, and more "winning" than Charlie Sheen, Chase is more than just a professional problem solver; He's a friend, a mother, a shoulder to cry on, a personal shopper, a feng shui decorator, a pet-sitter and one hell of a sax player (that's "sax" player).

In short, Chase is everything to everyone, because in this world, the big deals aren't made in the office - they're made during high-stakes strip poker on a private yacht with Affleck and Damon and over pedicures and girl-talk at Hollywood's top spas with Kim Kardashian, Taylor Swift and Neil Patrick Harris...

Chase Pierce, Hollywood Agent features real celebrities playing animated versions of themselves as each action-packed episode sees Chase getting celebrities in and out of trouble, while living the fabulous life of an elite Hollywood Power-Player. It's a wildly unpredictable animated comedy series that employs a range of devices; such as breaking the fourth wall and commenting to camera, POV shots with character voiceovers and celebrity-studded cutaway gags.

Nude cellphone pics circulating the Internet? Call Chase. No nude cellphone pics circulating the internet? Call Chase. Need to prearrange a televised marriage so that you can get E!Network to remodel your guest-house? Call Chase. Want to publicly bury your famous ex-husband in a bitter custody battle for your purebred miniature daschund Mr. Weenie? Two words. Call. Chase. Because Chase Pierce isn't just your agent - He's your lifeline to the American Dream. No, not Life and Liberty; Fame and Fortune.

Hartwig

Not much is known about the past of this mysteriously silent German clown, only that Chase found him in the gutter, a broken show-business reject strung out on seltzer and cream-pies. Chase picked him up, dusted him off and gave him back his self-respect (Or as much self respect as a clown can have). Now Hartwig is his driver, bodyguard, chef, personal trainer and confidante -- and he's highly effective when he's not listening to the twisted voices in his head. Seriously, this guy has more inner conflict than Gollum.

Chateau Chase

Chase's cover operation is a swank hollywood nightclub, so exclusive, so underground that it doesn't even have a name. Prescreened celebrity patrons whisper a codeword to the bouncer, who escorts them to an elevator that takes them to the rooftop helipad. They put on the blindfold and are flown to a secret island somewhere off the coast of California -- Chase's home base.

Life is an endless sexy party at Chateau Chase, and there's always something happening at his mansion, with surprise celebrity drop-ins and famous musicians performing by the pool. Like the Playboy Mansion in it's heyday, this is the one place a celebrity can kick back and let it all hang out (literally) without finding blurry pictures of their junk on TMZ.

The World

Stop Motion is the ideal medium to bring Hollywood Stars into the world of animation. In terms of creating convincing caricatures of real people, it is incredibly versatile and animation-friendly. Unlike 2D or CG animation, with stop-motion animation everything that you see is physically fabricated by hand - from armatured puppets to small-scale sets and props, bringing a stylized authenticity to the look and feel. Characters, sets and props have a tangible and tactile quality with real depth, light and shadow making the show stand out from other prime-time animated fare.

Bum Deal!

When Kim Kardashian is rear-ended and the injury takes her out of the running for the cover of B-List Bootie magazine, foul play is suspected. Chase is called in to get to the bottom of things -- no ifs, and or butts! The other cover contenders, triple threat sensation J-Lo and reality-star Coco, both have alibis, but what of their celebrity beaus -- former gangster rapper Ice T and latin heart-throb Marc Anthony?

Gone With the Winning!

Charlie Sheen out-hangovers the Hangover when he turns up missing after an epic Vegas winning-spree and post victory bender. Chase is enlisted to recreate the previous nights events, piecing together clues from the bizarre text messages and explicit photographs found on his PDA - among them a hair raising celebrity sex video featuring famous Vegas acts Carrot Top, Tom Jones and Celine Dion.

Mad Mel Makeover!

Fresh on the heels of his anti-women and anti-semitic scandals, Mel Gibson hires Chase to make-over his tarnished image with a role that will restore his shining star. Chase assembles a focus group comprised of women and rabbis, before developing the perfect Oscar-contending role. Mel Gibson in Anne Frank the musical! (Directed by Woody Allen, with Music by Barbara Streisand.)

The Triplets of Hellville!

When Chase called to the Olsen mansion to help produce their latest single, he accidentally discovers a disturbing secret -- there's actually a third Olsen twin -- or rather triplet! As the only Olsen with talent, she's been enslaved by her evil sisters and forced to do the bulk of the work, while they take all the credit! Warning: This Cinderella story doesn't have a happy ending!

Justin Bloody-Knuckles Bieber!

When Justin Bieber decides to throw away his music career and become an Ultimate Fighter, his management team brings Chase in to keep him from severe bodily harm. But when Justin won't be deterred from making his tournament debut, insisting his powerful dance-fighting will reign supreme, Chase must take extreme measures and fix the fights to keep Bieber from getting killed. Featuring MMA legend Chuck Liddell!

Lilo in Stitches!

Lindsay Lohan is under house arrest yet again, but she thinks she's found a way to beat the system -- she's bought a mobile home, which allows her to go anywhere she wants, while still complying with the law. Or so she thinks! Now she's leading an OJ-style chase down the LA Turnpike. Can Chase drop down onto the speeding RV via helicopter and talk her down, or will they both meet their fiery demise?
